Personal Profile

We are pleased to offer you, free of charge, an extract from your personal potential assessment and a few suggestions on how to promote yourself effectively. These few lines provide an overview of your approach to relationships as well as your level of interest in the technical aspects of your work, two of the many characteristics measured by our ProfileSoft system.

Individually, these characteristics cannot predict your ability to successfully assume a given role or responsibilities. They should, however, be taken into account when selecting a position.

Your answers to Questionnaire 1 « Profile » are compatible with those of the population and your results are valid according to the established norms.

■ Approach to relationships

You are reserved and selective. You prefer personal contact with people you know very well.

Promoting yourself

State that you always get along well with others and consider yourself an excellent team player.

■ Interest in technical aspects of work

You are realistic and practical. You are stimulated by practical aspects of the work rather than theoretical ones.

Promoting yourself

Emphasize that you enjoy learning new tasks, especially those that are practical in nature.
